Pantai, regrets the provocations by irresponsible parties during the setting up of her Hari Raya Open House last Sunday.

She said that the open house volunteers and workers were kept up all night long until the early morning as they were worried and scared that the preparations could be sabotaged.

"They hanged their party flags and were very boisterous. The team had to stay on site until 5am. And they were very worried that something could happen to our tents and other preparations," she said to Sinar Harian.
